THE TIGER

1962

GEORGE
MILLER

We are the Citizens of Tomorrow. The scientist, the teacher, the doctor, the laborer, the farmer, the statesman, and the clergyman, - all are amongst us. WE hold the hope of the future -- the hope of a free world. We are united by a sincere belief in God and a tradition called Americanism.

As we prepare for our future, we hope we have learned to display the following qualities:

Interest in our schools and community
Perseverance in all we undertake
Sportmanship in athletics and daily life
Willingness to help at all times
Integrity of both word and deed
Cheerfulness in all our daily activities
Honesty with our friends and ourselves

DEDICATION

Miss Hazel Manzer

In deep appreciation for her friendship, for her inspiration, for her patient guidance; and with admiration for her devotion to duty, for her intellectual capacity, we, the Class of 1962, humbly, and with much pleasure, dedicate this edition of The Tiger to MISS HAZEL MANZER.

HERE AND THERE

CLASS HISTORY

Anna Kioss

When we, the Class of 1962, entered Ipswich High School as freshmen, in September 1958, it was not as strangers, for most of us had been attending school in this building since the sixth grade. However, we soon found high school routine a different matter. Having attended the afternoon session for three years, we were not accustomed to early rising for school at 7:20 in the morning, -the crack of dawn it seemed to us. Typical freshmen, we duly respected the upperclassmen and stood in awe and trepidation of "those terrible teachers" (whom we eventually found quite human).

Our class of one-hundred-ten strong was led by John Los (president), Melvyn Frydrych (vice-president), Susan Bailey (treasurer), and Karen Mansfield (secretary). Representatives to the Student Council were Sara Eustace, Melvyn Frydrych, John Los, and John Mackey.

The days passed quickly as we settled down. John Los was the only freshman to make the varsity football team. January brought mid-year's, our first taste of real testing. Our St. Patrick's Day Dance proved quite successful, with music by the Ripchords. Almost stealthily, it seemed, June crept around with its promise of the summer vacation and the end of our first year of high school.

Returning in the fall as sophomores, we entered into what was to become quite an eventful year. The class roster changed with John Andreozzi's, Linda Damon's, Alex Fisher's, and Paul Whetmore's leaving, and the arrival of Diane Cole, Suzanne Fournier, Judy Holland, Sally Jackson, Jean Lacey, William Sheren and Susan Wood.

John Los and Susan Bailey returned to their respective class offices. John Mackey was elected vice-president, and Carol Mansfield replaced her sister as secretary. Those elected for the Student Council were Carol Cottam, Sara and Susan Eustace, Dorothy Field, and John Los.

We provided Miss Hill with many black days and debated long and hard with Mr. Cobbett about "growing dead." This year Wynne and Anna became junior celebrities because of their colored chickens, and Susan and Dottie took top awards at the Science Fair with their three-legged frogs. In February we held our class dance, a Valentine's Day theme. Gerry Hammond and John Beaupre became the first in the class to get their driving licenses. The year ended all too quickly. With much regret we said good-bye to Miss Blodgett, Mr. Cobbett, Miss Cogswell, and Miss Hill, -some of our favorite teachers.

In the fall we happily assumed the role of upper classmen. To the class roster were added the names of Fred Krohn and Sheila Trudel. Those classmates we lost were Annette Fisher, Judy Holland, Sally Jackson, Heidi Simoneau, and Nancy Stilphen.

We were so pleased with our class officers during our sophomore year that we re-elected them for our junior year. Student Council representatives were Susan Eustace, Dorothy Field, John Los, John Mackey, and Marjorie Passales.

Instead of choosing a class ring it was decided to begin the tradition of school rings. The members of the ring committee did an excellent job in giving us a ring with which we were all pleased. At our junior dance in January, beatniks were the order of the day. The cafeteria was skillfully transformed into a coffee-house. The program was complete with poetic readings by Geof. Miller, while Fred Krohn and Tom Clasby supplied accompaniment on the bongos. Kenny and Dale, our Mr. America's, were outstanding successes on the wrestling team. In chemistry, many of us learned - the hard way - that acid does burn.

Of course the high point of the year was the junior Prom. The class broke tradition by going to Crane's Castle. The theme, appropriately enough, was "Castle-by-the-Sea." Music was provided by Baron Hugo's orchestra. It was a night thoroughly enjoyed by both students and faculty. James Moon and Linda Bouzianis were chosen King and Queen, and innovation.

Jean Weaver, Phil Hamm, and John Mackey were chosen, respectively, as Girls' and Boys' State Representatives. One of the final events of our Junior year was the induction of several of our classmates into the National Honor Society.

Those selected were Carol Cottam, Sara and Susan Eustace, Melvyn Frydrych, Anna Kjoss, John Mackey. Carol Cottam, John Mackey and Melvyn Frydrych received additional honors by winning respectively the D.A.R. award for Excellence in History, and the Harvard Book Award. With the election of the TIGER staff in June, the year's activities were concluded.

Now we have entered our final year at Ipswich High School. The addition of Kay Greaney and Dick Hennessey helped replace Jeff Adams, Fred Krohn, and Jean Lacey. Our junior class officers were re-elected. Student Council representatives were Susan Eustace, Dottie Field, John Los, John Mackey, and Dick Sheppard.

CLASS HISTORY

The year's activities started quickly. In September, many of us journeyed to see an unforgettable performance of MACBETH at the American Shakespeare Festival in Stratford, Connecticut. Jack caused an uproar in the theater with his question of "What do you wear under your kilts?" In October we sponsored a dance, and the steering committee was elected. The TIGER staff went to work early. Pictures were taken, activity lists made, and class celebrities chosen.

The football team was captained by John Los and John Standley. The senior play, YOU CAN'T TAKE IT WITH YOU, produced in November, proved as much fun for the cast as for the audience. John Mackey was voted Most Popular Football Player, and received the Hoffman Award as the student-athlete of the squad. John Los (along with John Mansfield) was chosen Most Valuable Player.

The senior Christmas dinner and party were held December 21. Jay proved to be a most effective Santa Claus. A "snow-ball" dance was held December 22. In a decorated gaily gym, couples in festive mood danced to Jay Howard's orchestra.

Melvyn Frydrych and Ted Kaszuba were chosen captains of the basketball team, and an auspicious season is in the offing.

Many of us began feverishly filling out college applications, and are eagerly awaiting CEEB scores and mid-year marks so that our transcripts can be completed.

We are looking forward to our Reception, Class Day, and Commencement and the confusion of "last this" or "last that."

As a class we wish to express our many thanks to the faculty who have given us so much of their time, talents, and efforts to making our four years at I.H.S. so worthwhile. Wherever we go and whatever we do, we shall always have wonderful memories of our high school days at Ipswich.

CLASS WILL

Alexandra Sklarz
Clarke Bayley

We, the Class of 1962 of Ipswich High School, in the Commonwealth of Massachusetts, being of sound mind and memory and cognizant of the needs of those we leave behind, do hereby make this our last will and testament.

After payment of our debts we decree the following:

FACULTY

Item: Sincere thanks for their help bestowed upon us through our four unforgettable years at I.H.S.

TO THE STUDENT BODY

Item: Best wishes in next year's sports' program.

Item: Bigger and better auditorium in which to hold assemblies.

TO THE CLASS OF 1965

Item: The privilege of associating with the upper classmen.

Item: Circular file for their title "Little Freshmen."

GIFTS TO THE GIRLS

Jay MacGilvary
Jack Standley

One bright and sunny day in May,
We were fishing in Ipswich Bay.
A little worm we were about to hook
Until we espied his terrified look.

We cast our line without the worm,
And sat there watching the fishes squirm,
And then we felt a tremendous tug
And pulled in our line with a smile so smug.
But there at the end was a pirate's box,
Barnacles and seaweed covered its locks.
Excitedly we struggled until it was free;
You'll like what we found as much as we.

Nancy Moon has, in sports,
Kept up the family name:
For her there was a basketball
As a reminder of her fame.

For Ann Recine who likes jokes and fun
There was a bright and yellow sun,
To make her days much brighter
And her cares and woes much lighter.

For Carol Mansfield, a popular girl,
This magnet's just the thing
To hold the friends she has now
And many more to bring.

Sandy Sklarz, our boyologist,
Never lacks a date;
This little red engagement book
Will keep her plans all straight.

Gail Stevens is very quiet;
In classes she's never bad;
She can keep this hammer around
And make the noisy ones glad.

Judy Poor's studious lass,
The quietest we have had;
This whistle'll make a terrific sound
So we'll know when she's around.

Since Susan Wood lives far away,
And has to travel to school each day,
This bicycle should suit her well
To help her arrive before the bell.

Jean (Weaver) knows not what she'll do
In planning her whole life through,
Medicine, law, or a job with the press,
A ladder will help her climb to success.

Morna's shown she can act
And deserves this Oscar bright;
We know that she will never lack
Excited applause on opening night.

Edith Atherton's fair and tall,
She'll like this new volley-ball;
We understand she likes this sport -
Would she--if she were short?

Sara and Susan Eustace
Sara is sometimes mistaken for Susan,
And Susan for Sara -- it's all so confusin'--
We have these large gold I.D. pins
For this popular pair of heavenly twins,
For college wear, they'll ease the situation
That for years most of us have been facin'.

These little pink vitamin pills
Will give our Midge pep and steam;
She can seem sleepy and slow
But she'll really be on the beam.

To Linda Gunn who works at Quint's
Goes this box of candied mints;
We hope at work she did have fun,
And will enjoy the sweets - to the very last one.

Diane Cole always looks so snappy,
This gift will surely make her happy;
We found this pair of two left shoes,
The latest in the fashion news.

Kay Greaney came to us this year,
And joined in all the fun;
We have for her a ribbon of blue
For all the friends she's won.

Barbie Grant a secretary will be,
So we give her these pillows three-
Not for the boss' knee this time,
But for the sake of making a rhyme.

Anna Kjoss' school work, we now can tell,
Depended upon this wishing-well;
Whenever her marks started to fall,
She'd throw in a penny - that was all!

Suzanne Fournier wears a colorful bow,
So to remind her of the IHS we know,
We give her one of orange and black,
Complete with pin fastened on back.

Susan Bailey's known as Sneezy;
We hope this hanky's not too cheezy;
We're very sorry it's not the best,
But we hope it will pass the test.

Eleanor Tullercash talks without end
To parents or to school-time friends;
We give her this very private phone
To use when she is home alone.

Ann Sweeney works very hard
Down at the Five and Dime;
So we got this little wrist-watch
To remind her of the time.

Linda Bouzianis is so pretty
That when she travels to the city
She'll need a pair of colored glasses
To help ward off unwelcome passes.

"Music," they say, "hath charms
To soothe the savage breast"-
If we give Dorothy (Mathews) a music score
Her ear will do the rest.

Gerry Hammond's a friend of everyone,
For her we have this little cap gun;
If she should make an enemy
She'll need no help from you or me.

Sheila Grimes has a long pony-tail;
Her gift came through the mail;
This hat is especially made this way
To sit on her head all through the day.

Carol Cottam's a credit to our school,
So she gets this new slide rule
To recall her favorite class,-
The one that went by so very fast.

Dottie Fields will be a nurse one day,
This first-aid kit will start her on her way;
How she'll make out we cannot tell,
But we wish her patients well.

Betty Babcock seems so quiet
We wish she would create a riot;
With these drums she'll have fun
From the rising to the setting sun.

To replace the gum that Lois
Surpitski's had to throw away,
Is this brand new package
So she can chew all day.

For Mary Lou Stone here is a halo,
All sparkling with gold paint;
'Twill always help remind her
We chose her as our Class Saint.

Sharon Thomas may look askance
At a gift of boxing gloves;
But now she'll have a fighting chance
To win the boy she loves.

Florence Tondreault, a pretty typist,
Need a ribbon new;
For two years' typing
The old one will hardly do.

Charlotte Leet is loved by all;
We give her this large rubber ball,
On it the name of each senior boy
To wish her future happiness and joy.

Donna Kmiec's luckier than most,
We give to her a happy toast --
We hope she will always stay
In Ipswich -- on Broadway.

Dayle Hammond's name is easy to rhyme,
Jail, bail, tail, -but not this time;
Instead for this classmate of ours
We have a bouquet of pretty flowers.

Sheila Trudel is quiet in school,
So she gets this heavy tool;
When she wants to say something
She can just start thumping.

Beatrice Maguire is usually left
To catch the Rowley bus;
For her we have this chauffeur
So she'll come to visit us.

Karen Mansfield goes horse-back riding
And so to keep her from sliding
We have this large bottle of glue;
Watch the horse-he might throw you!

Wynne Hodgkins has an orange house-
Odd color, you'll agree;
Enough to make this little mouse
Run up this little tree.

Joanne Poor is a tidy girl
With eyes of baby blue;
She'll like this ring with a pearl
To wear with every hue.

Lilita Kreismanis is on her way
To fame and renown in ballet;
To help her when she falls to hard
We have this pretty leotard.

Now our job is almost done;
You know our gifts are all in fun
To help you all remember this day
A pleasant memory along life's way.

GIFTS TO THE BOYS

Charlotte Leet
Marjorie Passales

We were at home, towards the end of the year
Talking of Class Day drawing so near;
We remembered each senior boy
Enjoying his gift . . .
And sat down with joy
To find rhymes that would fit.

Robert DeAmario never makes a sound; Melvyn Frydrych always rates
We got his gift right down - town; At basketball, -he's simply great;
We hope you'll use this little horn A gift of this ball will tend
To make some noise before we've gone. To remind him the season is at an end.

GIFTS TO THE BOYS

Clarke Bayley may not need this book,
A class flirt doesn't need to look
To check with whom he has a date
Be it Mary, Judy, Ann, or Kate.

Ken Chambers will like this weight
To keep himself in the best of shape.

It was difficult to find a toy
For John Mackey, our handsomest boy;
This mirror might do the trick
To keep him looking really slick.

Doug Woods, a member of our class,
Really uses lots of gas;
This gas we hope will take him far,
With our best wishes, in his car.

President John Los we'll surely miss;
To him we give a candy kiss.

For Paul McDade we got this gun;
We think it will be much fun,
For with it he cannot fail
To catch himself a pretty female.

Co-captain of our basketball team,
Ted Kaszuba is always on the beam;
If the ball should go off the track,
Just pull the string and get it back.

Dan MacLeod is small in size;
This present will make him rise.

Geoff Miller has a special talent,
We wish we did, too;
These brushes and palette are meant
Especially for you.

Dave Wallace had some very bad luck,
Because he didn't learn to duck;
So, Humphrey, here's an extra pair
Of legs that'll take you anywhere.

Bill Murphy likes to exercise -
A hobby, you'll agree, that's wise;
Since he uses weights so faithfully,
These barbells he'll use successfully.

Ralph Baker can fix almost anything;
He gets this little bit of string;
We hope that he will never forget
All the friends he has met.

Russell Morrill could use this mat
To kneel on when he changes a flat.

To Dick Sheppard goes this cute Hobo
In case he's ever feeling low;
It will remind him of his joy
In being our Best-Dressed boy.

Dick Hennessey's gift was hard to find;
This little black book came to mind;
With it goes this beautiful pen
To keep in touch with every friend.

Yogi Sotiropoulos has won much fame;
Here is a book that bears his name.

Nickels won't take Bob Benjamin far
When he is traveling in his car;
Gas is quite expensive today,
But these bills will go quite a way.

Tom Clasby proved to be a good actor;
For him there is a book of plays
To show that learning is a factor
In success in high schooldays.

John Beaupre's car will get him there
With a little gas and a lot of prayer.

Bill Dunbar is a quiet lad
And very nice to know;
For him there is a writing pad
So we could tell him so.

Gene Trask gets this little truck,
We hope it carries much good luck,
To the day his own garage
Is more than just a beautiful mirage.

Jack Standley is a true class clown-
Fun in school and in the town;
We have for him this little toy
As thanks for his good cheer and joy.

Alfred Bennett likes P.D.,
And knows much more than any three-
We have for him a sturdy key
To unlock more secrets in P.D.

Rick Camacho will like this shirt,
Its color will keep everyone alert;
And we hope that through the days
He will get raise after raise.

Willie Wendt gets this little jar;
The cream will leave nary a scar;
Removal may take a while, you see,
So many, many freckles has he.

For Phil we have a little bone--
"From ham to Hamm" you'll hear us
moan,
But with it goes happiness, we hope,
'Cause we know Phil- and He's no dope.

Dale Wenninger's strength's a good buy
For he can beat almost any guy;
To keep him in the best of shape
We got this very heavy weight.

Jay MacGilvary, as every one knows,
Wants someday to play with the pros;
For him we have this bat and ball,
For fun- because they are so small.

Cliff Perry gets this bowling ball
In memory of those days last fall
When he led his bowling team
With so much energy and steam.

This cute little tomato plant
Is for our class farmer, Billy Grant.
When all his seed have been sown,
As Burbank Grant he'll be known.

George Cokorogianis, we declare,
Is very particular about his hair;
To him goes a book of hair styles -
We hope it brings him lots of smiles.

Charlie Bateman likes to row -
His racing zeal you should know;
To him we give this fancy boat
To help him always stay afloat.

So now our happy job is done, This is good-bye to every one;
As we clean off the slate, Guard your gifts 'till a future date.

CLASS PROPHECY

EDITH ATHERTON - THOMAS CLASBY

Time: December 23, 1982

Place: Utopia, Ipswich's newest shopping plaza

Edie (colliding with Tom Clasby as she rushes between Bill Sheren's Dainty Diner and John Beaupre's Beau Brummel Haberdashery):

Oh! Excuse me! How nice to see you again!

Tom: Edie Atherton! How are you? I was just doing some last minute Christmas shopping before attending the class reunion.

Edie: I don't think we've met since graduation, and I'm looking forward to seeing our former classmates tonight, aren't you?

Tom: You can be sure of that. I'd like to know how prophetic our class prophecy really was.

Edie: I know. I have often wondered if the class went as far as our fantastic ideas sent them.

Tom: I'm sure we'll find that many went further. Since Earth's largest space-port has been built here, Ipswich has changed from the town we knew.

Edie: That's true. I understand that Barbie Grant and Dianne Cole are Space-liner hostesses, and John Mackey and Dick Sheppard pilots on interplanetary flights.

Tom: Of course, you've seen the new high school made a reality by many of our classmates who stayed to keep Ipswich's school system intact.

Edie: John Los' job as principal is made pleasant by the co-operation of Mel Frydrych, his assistant, and Morna McGregor, in charge of dramatics. Did you know that she produced, directed, and acted in a Broadway hit?

Tom: She was always good at acting. And I learned that Ken Chambers and Dale Wenninger are in charge of the weight-lifting and wrestling classes; Nancy Moon is the girls' physical education instructor after her career with the U. S. Olympic basketball team.

Edie: She has done very well as have Dave Wallace, the basketball coach, and Dan MacLeod, the football coach, both of whom have returned to Ipswich after having played professionally.

Tom: It will almost seem as if few of the class ever left high school. Gerry Hammond teaches dress designing, and Anne Recine has a modeling class. In the major subject areas are Al Bennett and Paul McDade, co-directors of the history department; Wynne Hodgkins, teacher of advanced math; Phil Hamm, head of the science department. Sheila Grimes is taking time away from her veterinary practice to teach biology.

Edie: That's a surprise! The business courses are being taught by Kay Greany, Gail Stevens, and Dale Hammond. Bob Benjamin and Charlie Bateman are the French and Latin teachers. Susan Wood's good nature and calm disposition are important ingredients in her role as guidance counselor.

Tom: Yes, she has done much to steer many I. H. S. girls to Dottie Mathew's course in culinary arts, and Jean Weaver's and Dottie Field's classes for those who plan to go on to a nursing career.

Edie: It's hard to realize that so many couldn't pry themselves away from the high school. Bill Murphy and Jack Standley are heads of the English department and Charlotte Leet conducts the mixed chorus.

Tom: I understand that Ralph Baker and Beatrice Maguire really put on some fine half-time entertainment at the football games with their band and corps of majorettes. I was surprised to learn that Dick Hennessey is the Driver Ed instructor.

Edie: I hear they've raised the age limit to twenty years.

Tom: Yes, I think they did that after Dick's first year of instructing.

Edie: Betty Babcock and Eleanor Tullercash are truant officers, and Clarke Bayley is the guidance director, with Karen Mansfield as his secretary.

Tom: Jay MacGilvary has a secretary, too, - Midge Passales.

Edie: Oh? What does Jay do?

Tom: Oh, they haven't found anything for him to do yet, but they will since the school is so large that there are two offices and three secretaries - Suzanne Fournier, in charge and Anne Sweeney and Lois Surpitski.

Edie: George Sotiropoulos has a pretty important job, too. He's in charge of all the study halls; Mary Lou Stone is the librarian, and Donna Kmiec and Geoff Miller teach art.

Tom: It seems the majority of our class returned to the school. They must have missed it a great deal. What happened to our other classmates?

Edie: Lilita Kreismanis has a dance studio, Linda Gunn and Cliff Perry are the principals in a movie based on a novel by Judy Poor. Anna Kjoss has been successful too - as a writer of nursery tales for adults. I think I read somewhere that Shelia Trudel owns a chain of funeral parlors. Florence Tondreault is her assistant.

Tom: I understand there have been a lot of deaths recently due to food poisoning.

Edie: Speaking of food-poisoning, have you eaten at Gene & Will's yet? It's run by Gene Trask and Will Wendt.

Tom: No, I haven't but I have used Robert DeAmario's new car helicopter service station and Ted Kaszuba's bowling alley - so big that it will hold half the town's population.

Edie: Ipswich also has an excellent beauty parlor run by Linda Bouzianis and Rick Camacho.

Tom: I've noticed some weird hairdo's at Bill Dunbar's used-car lot opposite Bill Grant's health bar. I hear he has made spinach and carrot juice all the rage.

Edie: Yes, Sharon Thomas and Sandy Sklarz are promoting the fad on their travels with the first women's pro-basketball team.

Tom: Well, how many other fields have been invaded by our friends?

Edie: Government, of course. Carol Cottam has achieved her goal: she's the Republican Senator from Mass. Sue Bailey is Secretary of the Treasury and Carol Mansfield Secretary of State.

Tom: And the Eustace twins are still inseparable. Susan married the president and Sara married the vice-president.

Edie: Doug Wood and Russ Morrill have connections with the president also: Doug is his milkman and Russ his laundryman.

Tom: I can't think of anyone else, can you?

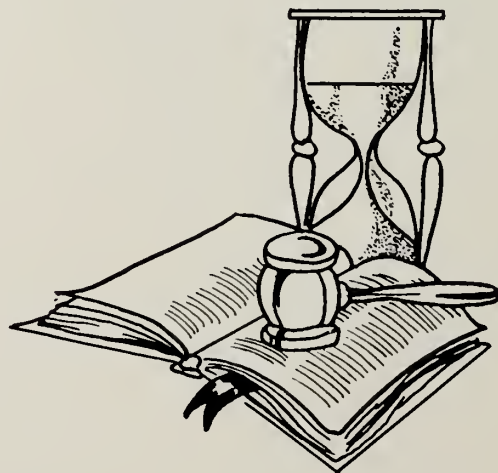

Edie: I guess that about wraps up the package.

Tom: Speaking of getting wrapped -- we'd better look out for those people behind us. . . we've tied up the escalator while we were chatting.

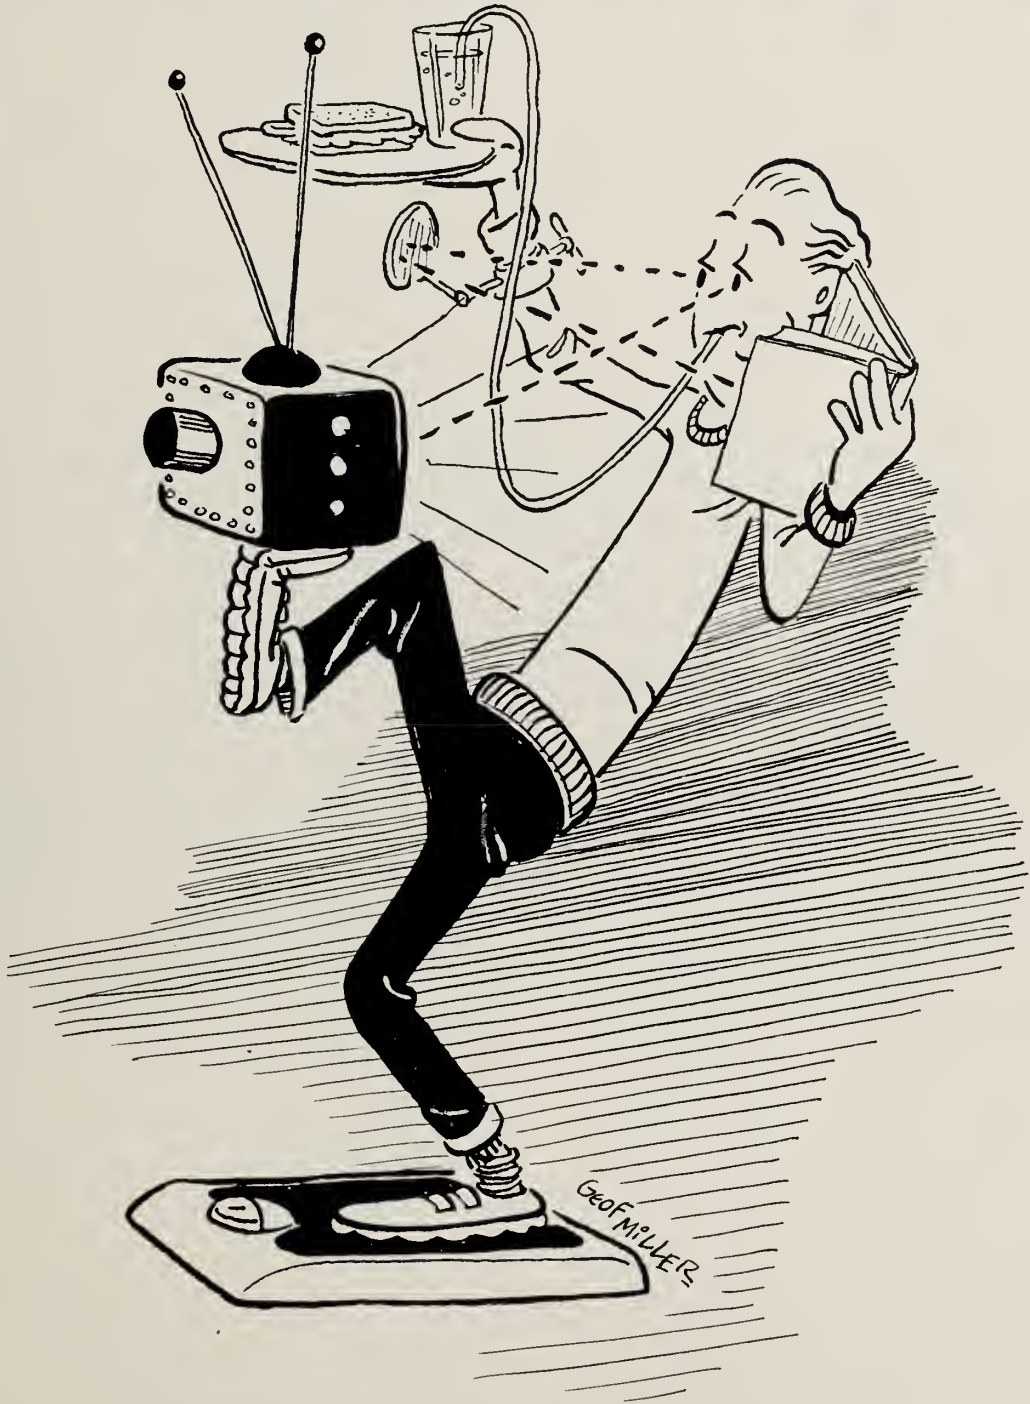

Edie: I guess we have. Oh, my gosh! Look at the time. I've got to run.

Tom: I, too. It's been great talking with you. Will I see you at the reunion later?

Edie: You bet!

Co-captains John Standley and John Los led the Ipswich Tigers to a fairly successful season in 1961. Although the season started poorly with losses to North Andover and Chelmsford, the Tigers came back to give the school a good football record of five wins and four losses.

With a team depleted by injuries to veteran players, the Tigers scored some exceptionally thrilling victories. Of these, the traditional Thanksgiving Day game with Dracut, rated a formidable foe by Coach Roundy, provided a truly exciting culmination to a challenging schedule.

VARSITY BASKETBALL TEAM

This season, the basketball team, coached by Mr. McKenna, had a good record winning 9 out of 16 games. Since the scores of some of the last games were very close, point-wise, it is hoped that next year's team, which will include many of this year's players, will have an outstanding season.

JUNIOR VARSITY

WRESTLING

Our newest varsity sport, wrestling, now in its second season, has caught on very well. It was popular with the boys last year, and as a result, this season, Coach Burke has a large squad which has been successful in most of its meets. In addition to the team record below, which is commendable, first place positions in the Merrimac Valley wrestling tournament were won by Dan McLeod, Hubie Gasper, Ken Chambers, and Dale Wenninger. Ken Chambers also won first place in the New England Y.M.C.A. junior championship.

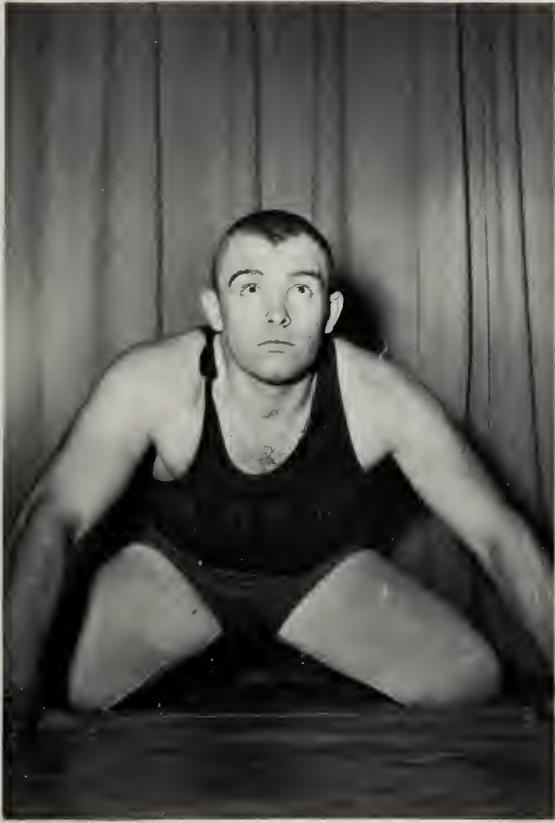

The loss at graduation of the senior members of the squad will not hamper the team's future success too much since most of the team are underclassmen.

We wish them success in next season's meets.
